

MISCELLANY

A Fenian Burlesque.

Some of the Fenians in Dublin placarded the dead walls of that city with the following parody of the recent proclamation of the Lord Lieutenant:

BY THE LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND HIS MAN, OR ANY OTHER MAN. PROCLAMATION.

WOODHOUSE, HERROO—Whereas, certain persons styling themselves Fenians have been endeavoring to obtain what they consider their rights, and by so doing have disturbed and frightened the loyal and peaceable old stay-at-home subjects of the old lady over the water; and whereas, they have evinced a determination to have the same at all cost, and appear to have plenty of men, money and war material to carry out their wicked design of making war on us, the aforesaid loyal and peaceable old stay-at-home subjects, by which we are put in great bodily fear of our precious loyal lives and the lives of our fat oxen and sheep, which would be a great calamity—greater than the cattle plague; and whereas, we are reliably informed that one of the aforesaid Fenians, named D. O. N. T. You-wish-you-may-catchum, has been prominent in disseminating this spirit of independence and patriotism in the breast of his countrymen, and has been most instrumental in making us afraid of our aforesaid lives and ill-gotten goods. It is ordered that, if the aforesaid D. O. N. T. You-wish-you-may-catchum do not deliver himself to the nearest beak or beakman, or other functionary of British misrule in Ireland, within five minutes of the posting of this notice, he shall not be allowed to sneeze or to say "How's your mother?" during the remainder of your natural life; and it is further ordered, that any person delivered up to us the aforesaid D. O. N. T. You-wish-you-may-catchum will be entitled to a reward of one hundred pounds, to be paid in scoppers, on the next change in the moon, each bearing a true likeness or impression of the run looking mug of the aforesaid old lady who lives over the water; and it is further ordered, that if any person shall knowingly or wilfully harbor or conceal the said D. O. N. T. You-wish-you-may-catchum, he shall be compelled to contribute the sum of two-pence half-penny to the aforesaid one hundred pounds of scoppers.

Given at our Castle at Dublin, this 20th day of September, 1865, being the last year of our precious reign in Ireland.

THOMAS A. LARKEM. God save the Green.

COUNSEL FROM AN OLD MAN.—Concluding a speech in relation to negro equality, the Rev. Dr. Breckinridge says:

"That any State, left to itself, will ever bestow suffrage on a mass of slaves of a different race, suddenly set free by a paramount authority, and nearly equal in number to the rest of its inhabitants, is an event that will hardly be witnessed in this world. That in any State where slavery never existed, or where it has long ceased to exist, a white race, both cultivated and predominant, will ever give suffrage of its own accord to a black race resident with it, equal to itself in number, and greatly beneath it in civilization, is an event contrary to the common judgment of mankind, and wholly improbable in itself. Nor if the relative position of the parties was exactly reversed, would the result be different. Because the instincts of mankind are more permanent by far, than the caprices of enthusiasm, and wiser by far than the extreme conclusions of delusive theories, or of party spirit. Secured in the great gift of freedom, protected in the rights of person and the rights of property, four millions of slaves of a different race will have received—if God continues to smile on our endeavors—an instalment of blessings indefinitely rich. Let these blessings be enjoyed and improved, not wasted and risked in the agitation of demands which have no foundation in reason, in experience, or in public necessity, and which are attended with many perils, and no hope of true success."

It is suggested that people who have safes should never place them so as to fall into the cellar in case of fire; and if put in a wooden building they should, if possible, be placed where the wall could be cut through and an attempt made to secure them.

"I mourn for my bleeding country," said a certain army contractor to Gen. Sheridan. "So you ought, you scoundrel," replied Sheridan, "for nobody has shed her more than you have."

The Southern Emigrants to Brazil.

A SETTLEMENT OF MISSOURIANS—HOW THEY GOT TO BRAZIL, AND HOW THEY FARE.

Dr. John H. Blue, of Missouri, is writing to the St. Louis Republican a series of letters from Rio Janeiro, descriptive of the adventures of the emigrants from the South who have settled in Brazil. He says:

"Judge John Guillet, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Carroll County, with several families, and a Mr. Reavia, of Cooper County, Mo., with his interesting family, are now here, (August,) making about forty North Americans in all, the nucleus of a good settlement around Col. M. L. Swain, of Louisiana, who has located and paid for a body of land on the Assuncy—a branch of the Serra Negro River, which empties into this bay from the North-west, and which is the only practicable route to the mines and to the rich and open country beyond. We have already houses and a little store and will soon have a blacksmith shop and school house, the Government giving us five hundred milrees a year to support a school. We have small crops of corn, beans and potatoes growing finely, and expect to keep ahead of the wants of new comers in the way of food. All of this dates from about the time I came into the bay, a period of less than three months.

"Judge Guillet and the others say all the expense which they had with their effects, wazo New York, whence vessels have room enough, and charge nothing extra for bringing them to Paranagua, from which we are distance across the bay. Northward, forty miles. They advise the shipment of all clothes, tools and everything portable, which may be on hand and cannot be sold for a fair price; as farmers and others will find everything useful here, to which they had been accustomed and perhaps find it dearer and inferior. Clothing is cheap enough here, coming from England and France, but blankets and bed-clothes are always wanted in a new settlement. Game is plenty, and a shot gun would not be amiss.

"Express companies ought to send movables through to New York with despatch, but they charge much more than commission merchants. In either case, bind the parties to deliver them by a specified time, and examine the packages before paying the charges to New York, to see that they are not broken or injured. Any respectable commission merchant in St. Louis or elsewhere ought to arrange all the matters better than I can.

"You ought to have some friend or agent in New York, to find you board and lodgings, or you may suffer from it. So, also, you ought to engage passage to Rio from some responsible ship agent or owner, who will stipulate demurrage, if you are detained, on expenses.

"When emigrants arrive in Rio, they can go to the emigrant house in Praia Formosa, where the Government has furnished comfortable quarters for them, excepting bedding and cooking utensils, at forty cents a day each, till they are sent forward gratis, on the first steamer, to their destination. The vexation of two dollars, gold, apiece for Brazilian passports from the consuls in the ports of the United States is not yet done away with, as it should be, in the case of bona fide emigrants; but a man and his whole family pass together, so that the expense is inconsiderable. I have written to have the whole fare remitted.

"I opened a correspondence with Senor Marcoudes, the Minister of Agriculture, and obtained the favorable concessions. And I have taken the pains to impress the Brazilians with the fact that this is no colonization scheme, to empty poor houses and penitentiaries on their shore, and to tell our countrymen at Rio that it is no speculation of myself nor any other individual; but an emigration of independent families, like the pioneers of Kentucky and Tennessee, who the fortunes of deplorable war have made refugees and who seek here an asylum. We believe in the future greatness of Brazil, and are willing to brave the ocean and the wilderness to begin a new and prosperous career under the patronage of the good Emperor, whose character, in the estimation of all parties, is most saintly.

General Carl Schurz is said to be in very bad odor with the President of the United States, on account of his spending his time, while traveling South at the expense of the Government, and on official business, in attempts to organize a Republican party South.

Burning of the Museum.

LETTER FROM MR. BARNUM.

New York, July 14, 1865. MESSRS. HERRING & CO.—GENTLEMEN: Though the destruction of the American Museum has proved a serious loss to myself and the public, I am happy to verify the old adage, that "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," and, consequently, congratulate you that your well known safes have again demonstrated their superior fire-proof qualities in an ordeal of unusual severity.

The safe you made for me some time ago was in the office of the Museum, on the second floor, back part of the building, and in the hottest of the fire.

After twenty-four hours of trial, it was found among the debris, and on opening it this day has yielded up its contents in very good order—books, papers, policies of insurance, bank bills, all in condition for immediate use, and a noble commentary on the trustworthiness of Herring's Fire-Proof Safe. Yours truly, P. T. BARNUM.

To the Citizens of South Carolina.

The termination of a sanguinary contest, which for the past four years has presented an impassable barrier to all social or commercial intercourse between the two great sections of our country, having at length happily cleared away all obstacles to a removal of those relations which formerly bound us together in a fraternal union, I take the earliest opportunity afforded me by this auspicious event, to greet my Southern friends, and to solicit from them a renewal of that extensive business connection which for a quarter of a century has been uninterrupted, save by the great public calamity to which I have adverted.

It is scarcely necessary, on the threshold of a business re-union, I should repeat the warning so often given to my friends—to beware of all those spurious and deleterious compounds which, under the specious and false titles of Imported Wines, Brandies, Holland Gin, Liqueurs, &c., have been equally destructive to the health of our citizens as prejudicial to the interests of the legitimate importer.

Many years of my past life have been expended in an open and candid attempt to expose these wholesale frauds; no time nor expense has been spared to accomplish this salutary purpose, and to place before my friends and the public generally, at the lowest possible market price, and in such quantities as might suit their convenience, a truly genuine imported article.

Twenty-five years' business transactions with the largest and most respectable exporting houses in France and Great Britain have afforded me unsurpassed facilities for supplying our home market, with Wines, Liqueurs and Liqueurs of the best and most approved brands in Europe, in addition to my own distillery in Holland for the manufacture of the "Sekidam Schnapps."

The latter, so long tested and approved by the medical faculties of the United States, West Indies and South America as an invaluable Therapeutic, a wholesome, pleasant and perfectly safe beverage in all climates and during all seasons, quickly excited the cupidity of the home manufacturers and vendors of a spurious article under the same name.

I trust that I have, after much toil and expense, surrounded all my importations with safeguards and directions which, with ordinary circumspection, will insure their delivery, as I receive them from Europe, to all my customers.

I would, however, recommend, in all cases where it is possible, that orders be sent direct to my Depot, 22 Beaver street, New York, or that purchases be made of my accredited agents.

In addition to a large stock of Wines, Brandies, &c., in wood, I have a considerable supply of old tried foreign Wines, embracing vintages of many past years, bottled up before the commencement of the war, which I can especially recommend to all connoisseurs of these rare luxuries.

In conclusion, I would specially call the attention of my Southern customers to the advantage to be derived by transmitting their orders without loss of time, or calling personally at the Depot, in order to insure the fulfillment of their favors from the present large and well selected assortment.
